US Beltie News

President Dawson Masters

Welcome to March! The Belted Galloway Society held the Spring Council Meeting in New Glarus, Wisconsin during the month of February. After my visit to Wisconsin, I am whole-heartedly, one hundred percent certain, that this Texan will never retire to any location north of the Mason Dixon line. I salute all of my fellow cattlemen and women who raise cattle during the winter months, and work daily in freezing temperatures, snow, and ice!

I want to recognize long-time breeder and friend to many, Michelle Ogle of Bedminster, New Jersey. Most recently, Michelle served as a member of the executive team, as our president from 2014 through 2015, and the chairperson of the show/sale committees. Actually, she has served our breed for over two decades with (two) two-terms on Council and in many capacities. Her knowledge, expertise, and work ethic on behalf of our breed is amazing. We really cannot thank her enough for her dedication! With Michelle's retirement on Council, she made the decision to retire from the show/sale committees too. She has promised me that she will help me with a smooth transition as I move into the role as chairperson. The rest of the show/sale committee members have rolled up their sleeves to work together.

We spent a lot of time discussing the show/sale committee recommendations at the Spring Council meeting. Belted Galloway exhibitors can expect updated national show rules. We are also planning the 2018 Annual General Meeting and the Premium Sale during the North American International Livestock Exposition, in Louisville, Kentucky during November. The Premium Sale will transition into a live sale too. Executive Director Vic Eggleston and I will be traveling to Louisville in March to meet with the NAILE administration.

It is important to note that Michelle Ogle has worked over two decades to help us exhibit our breed at the NAILE. Because we are now in Freedom Hall on the green shavings, it is like winning the Super Bowl for the exposure it brings to our breed.

Albert Einstein once said, 'There are two ways to live your life. One is as though nothing is a miracle. The other is as though everything is a miracle.' It is a miracle that our breed has stood the test of time and grown in numbers because of the crossbreeding of cattle for commercial markets over the past fifty years in the United States. Our breed continues to take a "hit" in commercial markets across the country because it apparently is still a secret about the quality of the meat under the belted hide. We have work to do! Sell your finished steers privately. Belong to your beef associations. Attend local, regional, and national meetings. Network among Belted Galloway breeders. Market your cattle as purebred and register them. Do not discount them. Be positive!

I recently visited a farm of Belted Galloway cattle in the Midwest. As I turned to go down the road they lived on, I saw another herd of black cattle. It was a cold, windy, snowy day and they stood together hunched over. As I arrived at the Belted Galloway farm, I observed soggy-bellied, bred females in the pastures eating hay, oblivious to the weather conditions. Hmm – where are the commercial cattlemen when I need to teach them something?

Photos are FREE when placed on beltie.org. One photo per animal. Email ads to executivedirector@beltie.org or by fax (608) 527-4811 or phone (608) 220-1091. We encourage members to submit ads the last two weeks of the month.

About bulls ... Before advertising a young male be sure he is well conformed, tracks properly, has good legs and feet, and exhibits good weight gains. We should have data available on his birth weight, 205-day weaning weight, and yearling weight. If he's reached breeding age (around 16 months), it's definitely a plus to have his semen checked for quantity and motility, and uniform scrotal development (two normal sized testicles). Any data available should appear in your advertisement along with his birth date and the names of his sire and dam. It is required that registration numbers be included on bulls advertised for sale in the classifieds.
